Catarrh

Invites Consumption
It weakens the delicate lung tissues, deranges the digestive organs, and breaks down the general health. It is often associated with rheumatism and diabetes, impairs the taste, smell and hearing, and affects the voice. Being a constitutional disease it requires a constitutional remedy.

Hood's Sarsaparilla
Radically and permanently cures. It is a natural light form of the blood-purifier known as Sarsaparilla. 100 doses $1.

"THIS DATE IN HISTORY"

December 10

1603—Meeting of the first General Assembly of the people of New York. 1778—John Jay of New York elected President of Congress.
1795—Charles Lee of Virginia, became Attorney General of the United States.
1813—Zachariah Chandler, U. S. Senator from Michigan, was born. Died Nov. 21, 1878.
1817—Mississippi admitted to the Union as the twentieth State.
1833—James abolished slavery.
1848—Louis Napoleon was elected President of the French.
1871—Alarming illness of the Prince of Wales, now King Edward VII.
1877—Osman Pasha surrendered with his entire army.
1895—William O. Bradley inaugurated as first Republican Governor of Kentucky.
1902—William Backus, English novelist, died. Born 1841.
In the death of Caleb Guthrie Mexico loses one of its substantial and highly respected citizens.

Needs of Children.
Professor Carey, of Breslau, remarks with reference to the condition that children are overburdened with work in school and at home, that the chief harm is done by allowing children to associate with persons older than themselves, which tends to overstimulate their minds. They should spend most of their time with other children of the same age.

Giving Them Room.
"There's one good thing," mused the woman reminiscently, "you may keep on hearing rumors of the things your best friends are saying about you, but you don't have to sit and listen while they are saying it, so long as there is a door."

Progress.
"Drunkness is on the decrease in America. Profanity is on the increase. There are far more smokers than there were 40 years ago, and not one hundredth as many tobacco chewers. Politeness in public places has become one of the lost arts. The children are smarter than they used to be, and a great deal better. We have more young people who can play the piano or violin, and fewer who can spell." The above is the verdict delivered on the present generation by a New York clergyman.

Balm for the Laggards.
"Punctuality," said the octogenarian, "is the thing of time. A punctual man all my life, I believe I have wasted quite 12 hours waiting for people."

SALONS QUIT BUSINESS.
Hundreds of Places in Southern Illinois Closed By Local Option Laws.

Chicago, December, 10.—Last midnight witnessed the closing of hundreds of saloons in Southern Illinois, under the local option law, as enforced by the law at the last election. Last night's action made the counties of Edwards, Johnson, Macon, Pope, Union, Wabash, and Williamson dry. Jacksonville loses 24 saloons; Duquoin 23; Herrin, 16; Carverville, 18; Marion, 12; Mount City 11, and Tamaroa, 10. Williamson county alone 50 saloons.

C. H. Wales is confined to home by illness.
C. W. TRICKETT, a prominent attorney of Kansas City, Kansas, writes the Ledger as follows. One county saved $25,000 in the expense of prosecuting criminals and about $5,000 was put in the school fund by fines and forfeited bonds. So the closing of our saloons netted us in one year $30,000.

Take the Ledger for the News.

Along the line of local officers enforcing the law Governor Hughes of New York say: No system of government is complete unless means are provided for holding public officers to strict accountability and for enforcing the discharge of their obligations. We have a variety of provisions to this end, ranging from impeachment to summary removal. We have particularly the necessity of enforcing the accountability in the case of local officers. Local administration is closest to us. Local administration is by far the most important administration, although too often not so regarded. If we have local affairs managed in a pure and capable manner, we may be sure that the higher offices will be well administered, for vigilant citizenship begins its work at home. Of the highest importance are the provisions for enforcing the accountability of local officers. The greater part of administration is local. It is that which most closely affects our immediate interests. If local administration in our various communities is pure and capable there will be no difficulty in securing the proper conduct of higher offices, for vigilant citizenship begins its work at home. The local officer is elected by the majority of the local community, but he is not the officer of the majority. He owes to all the citizens faithful service according to his duty. The minority cannot quarrel with the choice of the majority, but the men selected by the majority must do their duty. The majority have no right to keep in office a faithless official. In accordance with the plan adopted in this state, the constitution provides for the removal by the governor, upon charges and after a hearing, of specified local officers elected by the people. And statutes have provided similar methods of accountability in connection with various local officers not mentioned in the constitution. In acting in such matters the Governor exercises an extraordinary power, and his exercise of it is not reviewable. And this power is to be exercised by the Governor upon charges and after a hearing. Thus the quality of the administration of local officers lies with the citizens of the community. They will have good or bad administration as they insist on the former or are content with the latter.

UNDER SOUTHERN SKIES.

Played at the Grand Saturday Evening to a Good Audience—A Splendid Production.

The appearance of Lottie Blair Parker's delightful play, "Under Southern Skies," was played to a good audience at the Grand Saturday evening.

This is an event that is always looked forward to with an interest by the theatre-goers of Mexico.

This company is a large one numbering twenty-seven people. The scenery was beautiful, everything used in the representation, being owned by the company.
The costumes are quaint and pretty the gowns being of airy summer goods made in the fashion of 1875 which is the period of the play. A Halloween celebration during which a pumpkin dance is introduced, was one of the lively features of the performance, which always delights the audience.
Beautiful Southern melodies were introduced throughout the play with great effect. The story of the play is both strong and interesting, and is relieved with much comedy which is contributed by the dark servants, and by their masters and mistresses, who are of the southern aristocracy. "Under Southern Skies" is one of the best successes of recent years, and is always presented in a first-class manner.

To detect hidden cracks opening from the surface of metals, the surface is first moistened with kerosene, and is then dried off with a cloth. It is then coated with chalk. A sort of diagram of the hidden fissures and defects is thus produced.

PRESBYTERIAN MEETING

Mr. Wright Addressed the Church Members Monday Afternoon and to a Large Audience Monday Evening.

The Rev. Frank Wright addressed the church members Monday afternoon. The burden of his talk being soul winning. He made the Christian's duty so clear that there is no mistake in it. Mr. Wright sang two beautiful solos, "The Homeland" and "I Will Meet You There".

Monday evening the church was well filled regardless of the stormy night. The sermon was directed to sinners and the text was Luke 13-34. Strive to enter in at the strait gate; for many say unto you will seek to enter in and shall not be able.

The minister hurried some steeple bannister blows at the pleasure, loving church members. At the close of the sermon he sang two soul searching hymns, "Shall You, Shall I?" Services each afternoon at 3:00, and each evening at 7:30. Everyone invited.

GUS STEINMAN HURT.

Was Thrown From a Buggy Sunday Morning Lighting on His Head Making a Bad Scalp Wound.

Gus Steinman in company with Henry Stewart had started from Mr. Steinman's store to his father home in North Mexico when the horse became frightened and began to run North on Washington street. Mr. Steinman in attempting to jump from the vehicle was thrown to the pavement his head striking the curb and inflicting a ugly scalp wound.

Both men are very fortunate to have escaped without a more serious injury. The wounded man is confined to his room and thought somewhat bruised and sore, is resting well to-day.

Mr. Stewart remained in the buggy and after an exciting ride the horse ran into a chain at the hitching racks, and was stopped. Mr. Stewart was not hurt but the horse received several minor cuts while the vehicle was torn up considerably.

Endurance Billiard Match.
Very recently a billiard match was played in Paris which lasted for 24 hours. During the whole period the players did not leave the room for more than a minute at a time. The match took place between Jules "ohan and Pierre Jausaud, and although they walked about 30 miles during the game.

Fish Quickly Gone Red.
Not any article of food undergoes poisonous change so rapidly as fish. And no state food is so poisonous as stale fish. If any one fish is worse than another in this regard, it is mackerel. Fish should be cooked as soon after being caught as possible, and what cannot be eaten should be thrown away. Soured mackerel left in the larder for 24 hours is very unwholesome.
